

Trusty Dick, Bristol

Trusty Dick (or The King Shall Enjoy His Own)

(based on) Johnson mss, Vol 1, London, 1760s (original A music only four bars long)

Bristol

from William Winter's tune book

Arrangement notes

TRUSTY DICK

Guitar plays intro and then the melody for the first two times through the tune.

Mandolin plays a rhythmic drone on a D note for the first time through the tune.

Accordion starts a drone at the beginning of the B music, first time through, and continues the drone until the B music of the second time through, from which point it plays the tune.

Fiddles come in gradually from second time through.

BRISTOL

Fiddles (only) start the tune.

Guitar starts with a single big D chord.

Gradual build from there.
